

Ask questions on Carnatic music and win prizes

Indira Sivasailam Foundation invites music enthusiasts to send questions relating to Carnatic music for the contest 'Anwasha - Quest for the Best'. The best questions will be short-listed by the jury at an event to be held at The Music Academy.

The top 30 finalists will be invited for an interactive question-and-answer session with RaGa sisters — Ranjani-Gayatri, the winner of this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal. One can participate by posting the questions on the The Indira Sivasailam Foundation Facebook page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) inbox or by emailing them to info@isfoundation.in. The contest is open till September 23. Ranjani-Gayatri will perform at The Indira Sivasailam Endowment Concert on October 7 at the Music Academy.

The Hindu - DOWNTOWN - 16th September 2016

A chance to meet Ranjani-Gayatri

Here is an opportunity for rasikas to meet Ranjani-Gayatri through Indira Sivasailam Foundation's 'Anwasha - Quest for the Best.' Enthusiasts can send in questions related to Carnatic music, of which the best ones will be shortlisted by the contest jury from The Music Academy. The top 30 finalists will be invited for an interactive question and answer session with the duo, the winners of this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal.

One can participate by posting the question on the Indira Sivasailam Foundation Facebook page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) inbox or by mail to info@isfoundation.in. The contest is open till September 23.

Ranjani-Gayatri will perform at the Indira Sivasailam Endowment Concert on October 7.

The Hindu - 16th September 2016

Carnatic contest: The Indira Sivasailam Foundation invites questions on Carnatic music as part of 'Anwasha – Quest for the Best'. The questions will be shortlisted by the jury and 30 finalists will be invited for a Q&A session with the vocalist duo Ranjani-Gayatri, winners of this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal. Participants can send their questions to the Facebook page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) or can mail them to info@isfoundation.in before September 23.

Times of India - 19th September 2016

A chance for rasikas to meet 'Ra Ga' sisters

NT Bureau

Chennai, Sept 19:

Over the past seven years, Indira Sivasailam Foundation has brought rasikas and artistes together to celebrate the rich Carnatic music tradition during Navarathri.

In a press note, 'Anwasha' has invited music enthusiasts to send in questions related to Carnatic music, of which the best ones will be shortlisted by the contest jury - from The Music Academy. The top 30 finalists will be invited for an interactive question-answer session with the Ra Ga sisters - Ranjani-Gayatri, winner of this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal.

The release said one can participate by posting the question to The Indira Sivasailam Foundation Facebook page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) inbox or by emailing them to info@isfoundation.in. This is a golden opportunity for Carnatic music enthusiasts to meet and interact with one of the leading artists of this generation. The contest is open till 23 September.

Ranjani-Gayatri will perform at The Indira Sivasailam Endowment Concert 2016 on 7 October at the Music Academy. For information, email: info@isfoundation.in

News Today - 19th September 2016

Indira Sivasailam Foundation presents 'Anweshha — Quest for the best'

Chennai, Sept 19:
Over the past seven years
The Indira Sivasailam Foundation has brought rasikas and artists together
to celebrate our rich Carnatic music tradition
during the auspicious time of Navaratri.

'Anweshha' invites Carnatic music enthusiasts
to send in questions

related to Carnatic music,
of which the best ones
will be shortlisted by the contest jury - from The Music Academy, Madras.
The top 30 finalists will be invited for an interactive Q&A session with the Ra Ga sisters – Ranjani-Gayatri, the winner of this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal.

One can participate by posting the question to
The Indira Sivasailam
Foundation Facebook
page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) inbox or by emailing them to info@isfoundation.in.

This is a golden opportunity for Carnatic music enthusiasts to meet and interact with one of the leading artists of this generation. The contest is open till September 23, 2016.

Ranjani-Gayatri will perform at The Indira Sivasailam Endowment
Concert 2016, on October
7 at the Music Academy,
Madras.

Trinity Mirror - 19th September 2016

Love for music

The Indira Sivasailam Foundation presents 'Anweshha - Quest for the best'. Carnatic music enthusiasts can send in their question on the foundation's Facebook page and the top 30 will get to interact with Ranjani-Gayatri. The contest is open till Sep23 FOR DETAILS VISIT: facebook.com/theISfoundation

The New Indian Express - 20th September 2016

Contest on Carnatic music for Navaratri

STAFF REPORTER

CHENNAI: 'Anwasha' invites carnatic music enthusiasts to celebrate the carnatic music tradition during Navaratri. Interested people can send in questions related to carnatic music and the best of them will be shortlisted by the contest jury from The Music Academy, Madras.

The top 30 finalists will be invited for an interactive Q&A session with the Ra Ga sisters - Ranjani-Gayatri, the winners of this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal.

One can participate by posting the question to The Indira Sivasailam Foundation Facebook page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) or by emailing them at info@isfoundation.in.

The contest is open till September 23, 2016. Ranjani-Gayatri will perform at The Indira Sivasailam Endowment Concert 2016, on October 7 at the Music Academy, Madras.

The Hindu - 21st September 2016

Love for music

The Indira Sivasailam Foundation presents 'Anweshha - Quest for the best'. Carnatic music enthusiasts can send in their question on the foundation's Facebook page and the top 30 will get to interact with Ranjani-Gayatri. The contest is open till Sep 23 FOR DETAILS VISIT: facebook.com/theISfoundation

The New Indian Express - 21&22nd September 2016

Sisters on stage

Ask a question and get a chance to meet Ranjani-Gayatri

'Anwasha' invites Carnatic music enthusiasts to send in questions related to Carnatic music. The best ones will be shortlisted by the contest jury from The Music Academy. The top 30 finalists will be invited for an interactive Q&A session with singers Ranjani-Gayatri, who have won this year's Indira Sivasailam Endowment Medal.

You can take part by posting the question to The Indira Sivasailam Foundation Facebook page (facebook.com/theISfoundation) inbox or by emailing info@isfoundation.in. The contest concludes on September 23, 2016.

Ranjani-Gayatri will perform at The Indira Sivasailam Endowment Concert 2016 on October 7 at The Music Academy.

The Hindu - Metroplus - 21st September 2016